The Harwood Arms.

Introduction

To the First Edition.

Eight years have elapsed since I began tracing the records of my Harwood ancestors and relatives, and I have now the pleasure of presenting to the descendants of my ancestor, JAMES HARWOOD, this brief sketch of our branch of the New England Harwoods.

When I first began tracing the records I had no thought of writing the family history. I was led to engage in the work simply from a desire to know more of my ancestry in the Harwood line. But as my interest in the work increased, I decided to publish the records in some form, so that the memory of our ancestors might be perpetuated, and we, their descendants, might come to know more of one another.

Being the first to write the history of our branch of Harwoods, I have had to collect most of the records from original sources, thus adding greatly to the labor of the undertaking. I here wish to acknowledge the kindness of those who have aided me with their letters or orally in tracing out these records. A list of those who have thus aided me will be found at the end of the book.

In arranging these records, I have aimed to give the facts which I have collected in as plain and concise a manner as possible, and so arranged that the connection may be easily seen. With regard to this arrangement it will be noticed that all who have borne the name of HARWOOD are numbered, beginning with our common ancestor, JAMES, and carrying the order down through all the generations. An index will be found in the back part of the book giving the name and number of each Harwood whose name is enrolled in this work.

I have taken particular care to get the names and dates correct and I think that all parts of the record may be relied upon as accurate.

In conclusion I would say that this has been a work requiring much labor and expense; and I hope it may meet the ends for which it is designed in giving us a better knowledge of our ancestors, and enabling us, their descendants, to become better acquainted with one another. Should this hope be realized, my labor will not have been in vain.

Preface

To the Second Edition.

Seventeen years ago I published in pamphlet form the results of my work up to that time in tracing the history and records of our branch of the New England Harwoods. I was then but a young man trying to make my way through school and college, with little time and means at my disposal for engaging in genealogical researches. But I loved the latter work, to me it was rest and recreation, and in such a spirit I followed it 'till the little book alluded to above was compiled and published.

Since then many experiences such as are common to this life have come to me, but none which has brought such pain as the loss in 1890, of my then only child, a bright, beautiful boy, who in the ten months God permitted him to stay with us, completely wove himself into my life and affections. In my loneliness after his death the thought came to me that I would take up the work I had all along intended sometime to do—complete and publish a second edition of the history of our family.

Ever since the first edition was published I have continued to collect materials for a second, and I think the records herein contained will be found as accurate and complete as it is now possible to make them. Nevertheless, it can hardly be expected that no errors will be made in such a work; it is even possible that there may be errors in the very arrangement of the early generations of the family. When we remember that there are several distinct branches of Harwoods in New England, as well as several in the Southern States, and that the ancestors of these different families immigrated from England to America at about the same time; when we further take into account that in almost every town where our forefathers dwelt, there were also living families of the other branches of our name; and when with all this we take into consideration that the early town records, which were often but imperfectly kept, are now in many places lost, we cannot think it strange that such a work should be incomplete in spite of the most careful painstaking. All that the most faithful genealogist can do is to take the materials now obtainable, study carefully each doubtful record, and give it the place to which it seems most probably to belong. This I have done, and in cases of uncertainty, I have used the word "probably," or some word of similar import, to mark the uncertainty.

With these explanations and introductory remarks, I now place in the hands of my kinsmen who share with me the honor of bearing the good old English name of HARWOOD, this volume, confident that it will prove not only interesting, but will also serve to draw and bind the members of our family still closer together, scattered as they are from Maine to California.

Preface

To the Third Edition.

After forty years of laborious effort, I have now the history of the Harwood families descended from my ancestor, ANDREW HARWOOD, of Dartmouth, England, and Boston, Massachusetts, as complete as such a work can well be made.

One marked difference in this edition from the former two editions lies in the fact that I am now enabled to give certified records in many places in the earlier history of the Family, where formerly I had to offer only what seemed the most probable but not certainly proven records. I am pleased, however, to find that my former guesses and deductions were in most cases very near the well established facts now given in this book. For the happy solution of these difficulties and for many important additions to the history of the earlier generations of our branch of the New England Harwoods, I am indebted chiefly to Rev. Anson Titus, of Boston, Mass., James Allen Kibbe, Esq., of Warehouse Point, Conn., and Hon. Ezra S. Stearns, of Fitchburg, Mass., all able genealogists and writers on local town history. For the very satisfactory records of two or three generations of our Family in England, I am wholly indebted to H. W. Forsyth Harwood, Esq., of London, England. Without his most generous aid I could never have located with certainty the English home of the ancestors of our line of Harwoods.

In presenting this edition of the History of our Family to my kinsmen and friends, I can but again express the hope that it will prove useful and interesting to them all. We have in this life many duties to fulfil both to God and to man, and surely one of them is to keep alive a knowledge of the men and women to whom we owe our very existence, and who wrought well to make it possible for us to enjoy far greater comfort and privilege than they themselves had. To forget them, to let all knowledge of them perish from among men would be little short of "base ingratitude," and would reflect anything but credit upon us, their descendants and beneficiaries. Here, then, is our monument to their memory, as well as a bond that shall hold us together as long as present conditions shall exist.

WATSON H. HARWOOD.

CHASM FALLS, N. Y., June 1910.

NOTE.—In many cases in the following records, I have mentioned church membership, lodge associations, etc. Doubtless very many others were and are members of churches and of other associations, but my informants in writing of them failed to mention these important items.

Origin of our Family and Name.

THE name of HARWOOD is a very old name in England, and its origin has been variously explained by writers on genealogy and heraldry. Burke, in his "Commoners of Great Britain," adopts the claim which has long been made that the Harwoods derive their name and descent from HEReward THE SAXON, and I myself copied Burke quite fully in my second edition of "Harwood Families," published in 1896. Several other families in England with names somewhat like Harwood have also attempted to trace their lineage to Hereward. Lieutenant-General Harward, in his work entitled, "Hereward, the Saxon Patriot," published in London, 1896, while claiming descent from Hereward for his line, denies it to others whose names vary slightly. He says of the Harwoods: "They derive their name from offices held under the Norman Forest Laws. In the registered armorial bearings of Harwood of Hagbourne and Streatley, one of the most ancient and respectable of these families, their arms are: Argent, a chevron between three stags' heads, caboshed gules. These are clearly the bearings of an officer possessing power and privilege under the Forest Laws. Still further indication is afforded of the right meaning of the name Harwood by the crest of the same family, which is: On a wreath, a stag's head caboshed, gules, having in its mouth an oak bough proper acorned, or.

Here is literally the 'wood' typified by the oak bough and acorn, in addition to the forestwarder's emblem of the stag's head. The forest officers were nearly all of Norman extraction. They were of several grades—wardens, verdurers, foresters, etc." Thus far I have quoted Lieut.-Gen. Harward.

If, however, there is a man in England, or in the world, for that matter, who should be regarded as an authority on the origin of the name of HARWOOD, that man is H. W. Forsyth Harwood, Esq., a distinguished Barrister-at-Law, and Editor of "The Genealogist," published in London. In reply to my request for his opinion on the origin of our name, he sent me the following excellent letter:

"15 Rugby Mansions, Kensington W., Aug. 20, 1907.

Dr. W. H. Harwood,

Chasm Falls, New York, U. S. A.

Dear Sir:—

I must apologize for having left your letter so long unanswered, but I have been much occupied since I received it.

You ask for my opinion on the origin of the name of Harwood. I have made a considerable study of the subject, and have come to the conclusion that the different families bearing the name of Harwood, Harward, Herward, Horwood, etc., are not all of common origin, and that the name has been derived in various ways.

In the case of my own family, whose pedigree in Burke's "Commoners" and "Landed Gentry" was compiled in a very unscientific period for genealogical research, the Subsidy Rolls for Berkshire show that persons named Herward were living at East Hagbourne in the reign of Edward III., and our ancestors were undoubtedly settled in the same parish in the reign of Elizabeth. But I do not believe in the alleged descent from Hereward the Wake, who left only a daughter and heir. Hereward was a rather usual Saxon Christian name, and it would be no more absurd to suppose that all persons named Edwards are sprung from one single Edward, than that all Harwoods come from one individual named Hereward.

But by far the greater number of Harwoods derive the name from a place, as Great Harwood in Lancashire, and Horwood in Buckinghamshire. The Staffordshire "Whorwoods come from a manor of Horewood in Compton, and the numerous Yorkshire Harwoods from Harewood in that County. Again, the name is occasionally, though rarely, synonymous with Howard. In Grazebrook's "Heraldry of Worcestershire," a family of Harwood is recorded as bearing the Howard arms. I do not at all agree with General Harward's conclusions, nor regard him as an authority.

Yours faithfully,

H. W. FORSYTH HARWOOD.

(In justice to Lieut.-Gen. Harward, we will state that his claim to descent from Hereward is based upon an alleged second marriage of the Saxon hero; however, we do not believe General Harward's claim to such descent is any stronger than that of any Harwood or person bearing similar name. In fact, no one living can trace his descent from Hereward the Saxon. But we know that families of our name have dwelt in various parts of England from a very remote period; and our own South Devonshire Harwoods are as likely to be a branch of the Saxon hero's descendants as any. But whether Saxon or Norman in their origin, we know they were of good English blood, and we believe that the various families of the name in America are not proving themselves unworthy of the ancestry from which they sprung.—W. H. H.)

Crests and Coats of Arms.

These family emblems have been worn with various modifications from time immemorial in countries civilized and savage. They are not, as some might suppose, employed for mere "idle show," but are useful and necessary in many ways which I have not here space to explain. Through the generous gift of Hon. Charles E. Harwood and son, Charles W. Harwood, Esq., of Lynn, Mass., and the great kindness of Daniel Donovan, Esq., of the same city, who is an acknowledged authority in such matters, we are enabled to present the members of our family with a very accurate reproduction in colors of the most ancient Coat of Arms worn by families of our name in the Mother Country. This will appear as the frontispiece to this work. Also, Mr. Donovan has copied for us the descriptions of nearly twenty modifications of this ancient family device, as worn by the various branches of the name in England. Following are the descriptions:—

Blazons from Sir Bernard Burke's General Armoury.

Harwood, Herward, Horwode and Whorwood, of Saxon origin, seated at a very remote period in Lincolnshire and Cambridgeshire; from this ancient line derived the families of the name seated at Compton, Sandwell and Stourton Castle, in the County of Stafford; at Hallton, County Oxford; and in the counties of Berks, Salop and Hants. Arms: 'Chi'ker d'or et d'azure une bende de gules III egles d'argent,' as borne by Sir Robert Herward, of Cambridgeshire, temp. Edward I.; the Staffordshire and Berkshire Harwoods altered this ancient bearing for: 'Ar. a chevron between three stags' heads cabossed sa,' (sometimes gu.), but at what period has not been ascertained.

Harwood (exemplified to Henry Harwood Penny, Esq., of Cromarty House, Porchester Terrace, Hyde Park, Barrister-at-Law, son of Rev. Henry Penny, M. A., Chessington Hall, Surry, by Sarah, his wife, only child of John Harwood, Esq., on his assuming, by royal license, the surname of Harwood.) 'Ar. on a chevron between three stags' heads cabossed gu. as many eagles displayed or.' Crest: 'A stag's head cabossed gu. holding in the mouth a slip of oak ppr. fructed or, between the attires a bugle horn stringed also sa.' Motto: 'Suaviter.'

The Harwood Families

Of New England.

There are three great Families or Branches of the New England Harwoods. I am well aware that several persons of the name besides the ancestors of the three Families came early to New England, but they either left no posterity that has come down to our time, or they were unmarried, or probably in the case of some, they finally removed to some colony outside of New England, or returned to Old England. Certain it is, that after 40 years spent in genealogical research and studies, and correspondence with persons of our name in all parts of the United States, I have never come across a Harwood, who was of New England origin who did not trace his lineage to one or another of these three great Families of the New England Harwoods.

We will now briefly consider each of these Families:

I. THE SALEM, MASSACHUSETTS, FAMILY. Descended from Henry Harwood and Elizabeth, his wife, who came from England with Governor Winthrop, in 1630. They lived for a little time in Boston, and were members of the church there, but were dismissed in 1631, to help found the church in Charlestown. Henry Harwood desired to be admitted freeman, Oct. 19, 1630, and took the oath of freeman, in 1633. It is claimed that Henry died about 1635, his life having been shortened by extraordinary suffering in a storm, mentioned by Winthrop in some of his writings. There was a Henry Harwood living in Salem, Mass., in 1638, made freeman, Feb. 28, 1643, died about 1664. George Harwood and Jane, his wife, were living in Salem in 1639. He was a carpenter, and had previously lived in Boston. He had a son John, born July 4, 1639, and two daughters. This George Harwood with his family and 41 others from Salem and Gloucester, Mass., removed to New London, Conn., in 1651, being early settlers in that town. In 1726, a John Harwood died in New London, aged 23 years, leaving no family, and he is said to have been the last of this family in that place.

Coming back now to Henry and Elizabeth Harwood, of Charlestown, they had a son, John, baptized in Boston, June 3, 1632. He married Emma —, July 11, 1659. She was born in 1628. They settled in that part of Salem now called Peabody. Their children were: John, born January 10, 1660, died young; Jonathan, born April 16, 1662, died young; John, born April 28, 1664; Jonathan, born June 18, 1666; David, born June 23, 1668; Alice, born Nov. 28, 1672.

From this family have descended the numerous and very respectable families of our name who early lived in Salem, Danvers, Charlton, Barre, Sutton and Oxford, Mass.

We know from the will of Henry Harwood, of Salem, who died in 1664, that he left no children. There was a Henry Harwood, of Boston and Salem, who was by occupation a shoemaker, who by his wife, Elizabeth, had five children, born at Salem between the years 1665 and 1674, but the record says this family "went back to Boston." Still there may be Harwood's at the present time who are descendants of this last mentioned Henry. If so, they should be numbered with the Salem Branch, as there is hardly room for doubt that the three Henry Harwoods who early lived in Salem were near of kin—in short, the last mentioned Henry was probably a son of the Henry who came over with Governor Winthrop, although we have no record of his birth.

Many of the Salem Branch have taken a lively interest in the history of their family. They have held several Harwood meetings, to which they have invited all Harwoods, whether of their line or not. Clayton E. Harwood, of Rockville, Conn., has done much work in compiling the records of his ancestry and kindred.

Miss Mary Robinson Harwood, of Salem, has also done excellent work in the same line.

II. THE NATHANIEL BRANCH. Four brothers, Thomas, Robert, John and Nathaniel Harwood, came early to Boston, from England. A sister, Hannah, came with them.

These four brothers were the sons of John Harwood, of London. It is thought that the father never came to America, or, if he came, returned later to England.

1. Thomas Harwood, was born in England, in 1623, died in Boston, January 5, 1707, aged 84 years. He married Rachel widow of Robert Woodward, July 7, 1654. There were born unto them six children, but nearly all died young, and Benjamin, who married, left only a daughter.

2. Robert Harwood, born in England. He married, about 1671, Joanna ——. They had one son, Thomas, born January 31, 1673. He died in early manhood. Robert Harwood was a "biscake baker" by occupation. He died about 1676.

3. John Harwood, born in England. He married Elizabeth ——. Their children born in Boston, were: Elizabeth, born March 13, 1650; Hezekiah, born April 27, 1653, died young; Hannah, born March 6, 1655, and Anna, born Aug. 26, 1657. They had also a son, John, as we learn from existing records that the father of the family, who was a merchant in Boston, sold his estate in 1657, and went back to England, but his son John remained in Boston, carrying on business under the direction of his father who was of London, England

4. Nathaniel Harwood, born in England, in 1626. He married Elizabeth ——. They resided in Boston, until after 1665, when they removed to Concord, Mass. Nathaniel was by trade a cordwainer. The children of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Harwood were:

1. William, born in Boston, March 28, 1665. He married Esther, daughter of Obadiah Perry, of Dunstable, May 11, 1692. They lived in Dunstable, where he was quite a prominent man. Their children were: John, born May 28, 1689, who served under Capt. Lovewell and was killed in the Pigwacket Fight, May 8, 1725; Thomas, born 1702 and was quite a man of affairs in Dunstable; and six daughters.

2. Nathaniel, born in Concord, Mass., Oct. 1, 1669, married and has descendants.

3. Peter, born in Concord, January 12, 1671. He married Mary Fox, Nov. 7, 1700. He became the ancestor of numerous families of Harwoods in Massachusetts. One of these families were among the first settlers of Bennington, Vt. The children of Peter and Mary Harwood were: Nathaniel, born 1701; John, born 1703; Mary, born 1705; Joseph, born 1707; Hannah, born 1709; Benjamin, born 1713, and Ebenezer, born 1714.

4. John, born in Concord, Feb. 8, 1674.

5. Mary, born in Concord, Feb. 5, 1676.

Nathaniel Harwood died in Concord, Feb. 1716, aged 90 years. His wife, Elizabeth, died April 25, 1715.

There have not been found wanting among the descendants of Nathaniel and Elizabeth Harwood, able and enthusiastic genealogists. As early as 1837, Mrs. Sarah Harwood Robinson, of the Bennington, Vt., line, compiled and published the records of the descendants of Peter Harwood, of Concord, Mass., son of the first Nathaniel. The late Myron W. Harwood, of Springfield, Mass., probably did more than anyone of our name has ever done in collecting records of all the Harwoods in America. The late Dr. E. V. N. Harwood, of Rutland, Vt., Herbert J. Harwood, of Littleton, Mass., and Fred H. Harwood, of Chicago, Ill., have each accomplished much in gathering records of their ancestry and kindred. It would be a grand work for some one in each of these great families of New England Harwoods, as well as in the great Southern Families of our name, to arrange these materials, gathered at such great cost of time, effort and money, and issue them in permanent book form. But let all remember that one man or one woman cannot well do this work alone. It is something each member of the Branch having its history published, should freely and cheerfully forward both by furnishing promptly all information and records the compiler may lack, and by contributing money liberally to meet the expense of publication. If some one in your Branch undertakes this work, do all in your power to assist and encourage him. You have just as much interest in the Family to which you belong as he has—at least you ought to have as much. Let us hope to see ere long a volume published of each of the three great New England Branches, and also of the great Virginia and Maryland Harwood Families in the South.

We now come to the third of the great Branches of the New England Harwoods.

III. THE DESCENDANTS OF ANDREW HARWOOD, of Dartmouth, England, and Boston, Mass.

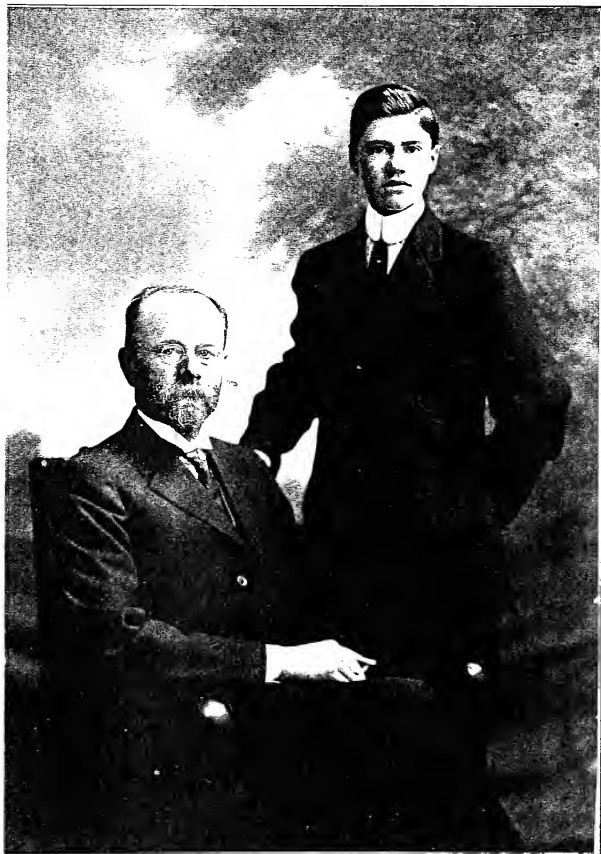

The records of his descendants will be found in the body of this work.

The Harwood Families

Of Virginia and Maryland

Families of our name were settled in Virginia at an early period in the history of the Colony. One of the first was Thomas Harwood, who came in 1622, in the Margaret and John. He was a member of the House of Burgesses, and a prominent man in the Colony. Then there was Augustine, and William, and Paule, and Ralph, and Richard, and Robert, and Arthur, and George, and probably still others of the name, all early in Virginia.

The Harwoods, too, were early settled in Maryland. One of the most prominent families of the name in Maryland is that descended from Richard Harwood, who came of an excellent family in England. He settled in Anne Arundel County, Maryland, prior to the year 1698. But there were families of the name in Maryland long before the coming of Richard. The descendants of the early Virginia and Maryland Harwoods are numerous, and we hope that the records of these important branches may soon be compiled and published.

WATSON H. HARWOOD M. D. AND SON WESLEY B. HARWOOD

First Generation.

ANDREW HARWOOD was born in England, and belonged to a family that had long been settled in the southern part of Devonshire. The earliest record we have of him is contained in the will of his cousin, or kinsman, Stephen Harwood, of St. Saviours, Dartmouth, Devon, cooper, who was dying of the plague at the time his will was made. This will was dated Sept. 5, 1627, and "proved Nov. 16, 1627, in the Court of the Archdeacon of Totnes, by Grace Mann, sister, and one of the executrices and residuary legatees, power being reserved to Ester, the daughter of Kinsman Andrew Harwood, the other executrix and residuary legatee."

"The Testator desired to be buried in the churchyard of St. Savers. And he gave to:—

Poor of St. Savers, 12d.

Sd. Kinsman, Andrew Horwood—Wife of Edward Kingman—Sister Johane—Nicholas and Andrew, sons of Andrew Horwood—Apprentis Roger Sheppeard, 20s.

Sister Grace—Sd. Ester Horwood—Mother 20s., if the servants doe com well home.

Sister Presilla 40s., if the shippes doe come well hoame, otherwise but 20s.

Handwoman then with testator 30s.

Joane Mudge—Writer 3s.

Overseer Cosen Andrew Horwood—William, son of Andrew Horwood a colte."

No signature, mark, or seal—"Witnesses: Anthony Stavely and James Coke."

Bond by Andrew Horwood, of Dartmouth, cooper, and John Beere, of the same, Tayler, in £50, dated 16 Nov., 1627, both made marks. The bond states that the executrix Grace Mann, was the wife of William Mann.

March 14, 1628: "Exhibited Inventory of the Goods of Stephen Harwood, of Dartmouth, cooper, taken by John Beere and William Pethibridge, and dated 10 Feb., 1628, £30: 6: 2 (which included musket, bandaleere, and a sword 12s., musket rest 6d., and a Bible 6s)". Then follows: "Things yet in ye custodie of her which served him in ye pest house," which brought the bal. to £37: 3: 2, or really £37: 3: 8.

In the above will Harwood is in every instance spelled Horwood, but in the Inventory it is Harwood. In those days the name was written Harwood, Horwood, and Harward, these variations being often found in the same register or document.

The next mention we have of our ancestor, Andrew Harwood, is in the record of the baptisms of his two younger children, Hannah and Samuel, in the Parish Registers of St. Saviours, Dartmouth.

Sometime, not far from 1640, our ancestor immigrated to America. It is certain that not all of his children came with him, but one, Mrs. Thomas Finson, (who may have been the "Ester" mentioned in Stephen Harwood's will) must have accompanied him, as they were living together in Boston, Mass., in 1644; and possibly one or two others may also have come with him.

The earliest record we have of our ancestor in New England is that he was made freeman in Boston, Feb. 28, 1643. In Nov. 1644, we find his name mentioned in the will of his son-in-law, Thomas Finson, which reads as follows: "Whereas Thomas finson, mariner, late of dartmouth, dyed aboard the shipp Gilbert, in September last, Oades Bayle being present, the said finson by word of mouth declared this to be his last will and testament, as followeth: Imprimis, to his sonne Samuel fyve pounds of English money; Item, to his child that his wife went with all fifty shillings; Item, to his wife one Hogshead of Tobacco; Item, to his ffather-in-lawe, Andrew Harwood, all his wages. And, farther his will was that the fifty shillings for the young child and the hogshead of Tobacco for his wife should be delivered to Andrew Harwood for the use aforesaid."

"Deposed the first of the 9th month, 1644, by Oades Bayle before the Court, and made a matter of record in Boston, April 23, 1645."

The last mention we have of our ancestor is in connection with a legal controversy going on between two of his neighbors, Christopher Lawson and Thomas Beard. A record was made of this by William Aspenwall, a notary public of Boston. This was in September, 1645.

There is little doubt that Andrew Harwood remained with his daughter, Mrs. Finson, till his death. The Finsons became a fairly numerous family in Massachusetts, the earlier generations living in Gloucester.

Second Generation.

Children of ANDREW HARWOOD, No. 1. All born in Dartmouth, England.

2. ESTHER, one of the executrices of Stephen Harwood's will. She may have been the one who afterward married THOMAS FINSON.

3. ANDREW, died and his burial is recorded Oct. 16, 1626.

4. NICHOLAS, married MARIA AMEREDITH, Feb. 16, 1639. They resided in Dartmouth.

5. WILLIAM, mentioned in Stephen Harwood's will.

6. JOHN, died and his burial is recorded Aug. 28, 1627.

7. ANDREW, probably born in 1627. He married ELIZABETH BOWDON, at Dartmouth, July 4, 1648. They removed to Stepney, a suburb of London. It would appear that after a few years he went to America, where he died in the early part of the year 1659. It is probable that his wife and children remained at Stepney. In the London records we find that Edmond Pike was appointed curator, Aug. 1, 1659, "to Sarah, Margaret and James Harwood, minors, children of Andrew Harwood, late in ye Virginia, [New England was a part of Virginia, in early colonial times] in parts beyond ye seas, deceased," and Dec. 12, 1659, administration was granted to Elizabeth Harwood, "relict of Andrew Harwood, of Stepney, but in parts beyond ye seas, deceased." From the information we possess it would look as if Andrew visited America with a view of later bringing his family there, but died before carrying out his plan.

8. HANNAH, baptized Jan. 17, 1629.

9. SAMUEL, baptized Oct. 7, 1632, died Sept. 1633.

(In the above list of Andrew Harwood's children, it is not at all certain that I have them arranged in the exact order of their ages.)

Third Generation.

Children of NICHOLAS HARWOOD, No. 4. All born in Dartmouth, England.

10. JOANNA, bap. Nov. 13, 1640, died March, 1645.

11. MARIA, bap. Nov. 27, 1642.

12. NICHOLAS, bap. Nov. 23, 1646.

13. SAMUEL, bap. Mar. 5, 1648.

Children of ANDREW HARWOOD, No. 7. All born probably at Stepney, England.

14. SARAH, mentioned as a minor in 1659.

15. MARGARET, a minor in 1659.

16. JAMES, born probably about 1655. He came early to Boston, Mass. He entered the Colonial army in King Philip's war, and served in Capt. William Turner's company. On the 19th of May, 1676, occurred what has since been known as Falls Fight on the Connecticut River. Capt. Turner with his men surprised the Indians in the early morning at a place of swift water, where they were camped for the purpose of fishing, and in the fight which followed between two and three hundred Indians were slain. James Harwood's residence is given at this time as at Chelmsford, Mass. He married LYDIA BARRETT, daughter of John and Sarah Barrett, at Chelmsford, Apr. 11, 1678. She was born in Chelmsford, Sept. 22, 1659. John Barrett was the eldest son of Thomas Barrett, who came from England to America, about 1635, and settled at Braintree, Mass., and later lived in Chelmsford. John was born in England, died at Chelmsford, 1706. He was a soldier in King Philip's war.

Mr. and Mrs. James Harwood continued to reside in Chelmsford until about 1717, when they removed to Littleton, Mass. We learn from an old record that "James Harwood, of Littleton, tray-maker, gave Apr. 3, 1719, a quit-claim deed to Jonathan Prescott, Jr., of Concord, to land said Harwood had in Littleton by virtue of a grant from the General Court." This grant of land was doubtless what had led the family to settle in Littleton. Mr. Harwood died Aug. 1, 1719.

Fourth Generation.

Children of JAMES HARWOOD, No. 16. All born in Chelmsford, Mass.

17. ANDREW, born Sept. 2, 1692. He probably died young.

18. ABIGAIL, twin sister to Andrew, died Sept. 1, 1695.

19. JAMES, born Sept. 30, 1695. He removed with his father to Littleton, Mass., in 1717. We find in the records at East Cambridge, Mass., that the "Littleton Committee," consisting of Eleazur Lawrence, of Groton, Isaac Powers, of Littleton, and Jonathan Prescott, of Concord, deeded to James Harwood in 1717, "upland which bounded on Groton line." He also bought land in "Sandy Meadow." In 1722, James Harwood, of Littleton, sold to Isaac Powers, of the same town, "all my labor done by me on a certain place lying and being near the meeting house and adjoining the Pound, and all right to the same, by virtue of Court's Grant to those who were settled at the time of the Court's Grant." In 1727, James Harwood and wife Lydia, and brother John, sold their land in Littleton to Samuel Barrett, Jr., of Littleton: "Fifty acres of land, upland and lowland, beginning at the tree standing in Groton bounds; also, land in Sandy Meadow." "Consideration £160." On the part of Mrs. Harwood, the deed reads: "And Lydia Harwood, the wife of me the said James Harwood, doth by these presents, freely, Willing give, yield up, and Surrender all her Rights of Dowry and power of thirds in and unto the above said Samuel Barrett, his Heirs and Assigns." In 1731, James Harwood was living and owned a farm in that part of Groton, Mass., that is now in the town of Harvard. In 1735, the General Court of Massachusetts acknowledged the perilous service rendered by the men engaged in Falls Fight, by granting a township of land to the survivors of the fight and to the descendants of those who had died. This township located at the place of the fight was first called Fallstown, but is now Bernardston, Mass. In the case of those who had died, the eldest son living was entitled to a portion of land. The lot in our family falling to James, he in May, 1737, drew lot No. 44, First Division. (His residence at this time is given as Concord, Mass.) He did not however, settle upon the land he had drawn, but was soon after living in Groton—if indeed he had not all along been a resident of Groton after selling his land in Littleton, in 1727. The conditions of the grant above mentioned required that at least sixty families should settle in the new township within four years after the grant was made. Accordingly, in 1739, an effort was made to fill up the number. Some of the absent proprietors responded to the call; others, rather than go, chose to pay 22 pounds each, which went towards making improvements in the new town. Our ancestor was of the latter number. March 18, 1739, he sold his right to the land he had drawn in Fallstown. Abstract of deed: "James Harwood, Groton, Husbandman, to Thomas Reed, Westford, Gentleman: One Right granted recently to officers and soldiers in the fight with the Indians at the Falls. This Right to my honored father, James Harwood, who was one of the soldiers, and I being the son and heir of said James Harwood, deceased." "Deed passed Mar. 18, 1739. Acknowledged July 17, 1740. Recorded Dec. 16, 1740.

Witnessed by Eunice Harwood and Moses Whitney." Soon after this, James Harwood settled in that part of the old township of Dunstable which is now Nashua, N. H. In 1747, we find his name in a list of those against settling the Rev. Samuel Bird as pastor in Dunstable. Again, in 1754, we find his name attached to a petition for dividing the Province of New Hampshire into counties.

20. JOHN, twin brother to James, died in infancy.

21. ABIGAIL, born May 18, 1699.

22. JOHN, born May 27, 1703. As we have already noted, he signed the deed with his brother James when they sold their land in Littleton, in 1727. A year or two later, he married MARY POWERS, who belonged to one of the early families of Littleton, and some members of which became large landowners in Lambstown (Hardwick), Mass., and were among the early settlers there. (The famous sculptor, Hiram Powers, was descended from the same line). Mr. and Mrs. Harwood were living in Lambstown as early as 1735, or earlier. That part of Massachusetts was then a new country, just beginning to be settled, and in the running of the line between Massachusetts and Connecticut it had received the name of the "Manor of Peace." We have records of many business transactions in which Mr. Harwood was concerned. Dec. 9, 1736, he sold to Joseph Allen, of Lambstown, one hundred acres of land. Nov. 3, 1737, he sold to Timothy Ruggles, of Plymouth County, Mass., "one-half of 10th lott, in 9th range from ye River, being originally Twitchell's draught, and was a settler's lott." Jan. 3, 1737, he sold 35 acres to David White, of Lambstown, "being a part of Lot 17, 2nd range, west of Ware River." Apr. 11, 1739, Mr. Harwood purchased of Eben Holden, of Lambstown, land in Quabbin (Greenwich), Mass. "Consideration £21." In 1739, he purchased one hundred acres of Nathaniel Kellogg, of Hadley, Mass. In 1742, "John Harwood, of Quabbin, conveyed to Samael Owen, sixty acres," "where I, John Harwood, now dwell." Consideration £450. From this latter record, it seems that Mr. Harwood had now with his family moved into present Greenwich. Jan. 17, 1751, Nathan Fiske, of Quabbin, conveyed to John Harwood, of the Manor of Peace, Hampshire County, 50 acres in Quabbin, consideration £40. July 23, 1752, John Harwood, of "Ware River Precinct, Husbandman," mortgaged 152 acres of "land in Ware, where I now live," to John Merritt, merchant of Providence, R. I. "This property adjoins the Greenwich town line." About 1740, John Harwood, of Quabbin, was having financial troubles. There were land sharks in those days, as in later times, and many records are extant of the trials John and some of his neighbors suffered from them. It was a constant struggle with law suits and debts from 1740 to 1757, then the writ of ejectment came. Not until about 1759, were these troubles finally settled.

Fifth Generation.

Children of JAMES HARWOOD, No. 19.

23. ANDREW, born in Littleton, Mass., July 5, 1722.

24. EUNICE, born in Littleton, March 21, 1724. She was one of the witnesses to the deed her father gave Mr. Reed, in 1739. She married, probably, BENJAMIN DAVIS, and after 1750, they lived in Amherst, N. H.

25. MARY, born in Littleton, June 6, 1726.

26. JOHN, born probably in Groton, Mass., between the years 1728 and 1734. His early manhood was spent in Dunstable, N. H. He was one of the signers of the petition, in 1754, for dividing the Province of New Hampshire into counties. He enlisted from Dunstable to serve in the old French and Indian war. His name is on a "Muster Roll of the troops employed in his Majesty's service on the Merrymac River, in 1754, under command of Col. Joseph Blanchard, and by him posted under proper officers agreeable to his Excellency's orders." He served in the same regiment in 1755. Later on he served in one of the famous companies of Rangers under Major Robert Rogers, which were made up largely of New Hampshire men and rendered most effective service on the English side in that long struggle with the French for supremacy in North America. As early as 1760, John Harwood was living in Amherst, N. H. I have no record of his first wife, only that she died leaving one child—a daughter. About 1766, he married ABIGAIL HASTINGS, daughter of William and Ruth (Grimes) Hastings, of Amherst, and they settled on a farm in that part of Amherst, which many years after (in 1804), was formed into the town of Mont Vernon. Mr. Harwood died about 1812.

27. JAMES, born about 1736, probably at Groton, Mass. When a mere child his parents removed to Dunstable, N. H., and he grew up inured to all the hardships and privations of early pioneer life in New England. In 1754, he signed the petition for dividing the Province of New Hampshire into counties. (His name appears on this paper as "James Harwood, Jr.") He early entered the service of his country as a soldier—a life that he followed ever afterwards as opportunity offered. His first service was in Capt. James Todd's company, Col. Peter Gilman's regiment, which was raised to reinforce the expedition of 1755, against Crown Point, then the place from which for many years the Indians in the French interest had been fitted out to raid the English settlements on the frontiers. His enlistment in this service bears date Sept. 22, 1755, and his discharge Dec. 1st, of the same year. His next service was in one of the famous companies of Rogers' Rangers with his brother, John Harwood. Mr. Fox, in his History of Dunstable, says of John and James Harwood and other Dunstable men: "They were out during the war." The next record we have of James Harwood is his enlistment March 18, 1760, in Capt. Nehemiah Lovewell's company, Col. John Goffe's regiment. This regiment of 800 men rendezvoused at Litchfield (on the opposite side of the Merrimac River from Dunstable), and marched to Charleston; then cutting a road through the wilderness 26 miles to the Green Mountains, thence to Crown Point, and from there they followed the road cut by the Rangers the previous year into Canada. Mr. Fox says of this company and regiment: "Col. Goffe's destination was Crown Point and Canada. A select company of Rangers was formed from the regiment and the command given to Capt. Nehemiah Lovewell of this town." Mr. Fox further says of Col. Goffe's regiment: "They were present at the capture of St. John's, Chamblee, Montreal and Quebec, which wrested all Canada from France, and put an end to the war." Our ancestor's service, then in the old French and Indian war covered a period of five years. The beginning of the Revolutionary contest found him as ready to risk his life in the cause of the American Colonies as he had been to fight the battles of the Mother Country. He was already enrolled in Capt. William Walker's company, Col. James Reed's regiment, having enlisted as a "Minute Man," May 2, 1775, when the news flew from town to town throughout all New England that blood had been shed at Lexington. The New Hampshire men needed no second invitation. Capt. Walker's company, made up of one-half the able bodied men of Dunstable, hastened to the scene of conflict, and at Bunker Hill "they fought with great bravery." After the battle the New Hampshire troops under Cols. Stark and Reed remained stationed during the summer and autumn of 1775, at Winter Hill near Boston. The next year, 1776, James Harwood with other Dunstable men served in Capt. Daniel Wilkins' company, Col. Timothy Bedell's regiment, which was formed to defend the frontier, and was stationed for a time in a fort called "The Cedars," at Isle Aux Noix, in Canada. April 7, 1777, James Harwood, enlisted for three years in the First New Hampshire Regiment, under the command of Col. Joseph Cilley, in the company of Capt. Amos Emerson. The description of James Harwood at this time was: "Residence, Dunstable; age, 40 years; height, 6 feet; complexion, hair and eyes, dark." During the months of May and June Col. Cilley's regiment was at and in the vicinity of Ticonderoga. Burgoyne with his large and well equipped army had marched down from Quebec with the avowed purpose of opening a communication between New York City and Canada, and thus cut off New England from the other colonies, and crush the efforts of the Americans to obtain their independence. For a time the British pursued the Americans hither and thither—they were driven out of Ticonderoga, made a stand at Hubbardton, Vt., but were defeated with terrible loss and the survivors of their little army scattered and disheartened. It was on this retreat that our ancestor, James Harwood, became separated from his company, and was reported "missing"—some records give it that he was killed. He had yet, however, to take brave part in several battles for his country before his lifework should be completed. Bennington is ahead, and the defeated and scattered Americans are rallying again to their standards; Gen. Burgoyne is to be taught a bitter lesson—one which will prepare him for his complete overthrow at Saratoga. Old soldiers like our ancestor, who had seen nearly eight years (in both wars) of terrible warfare, were there; their sons, boys of 16 to 18 years, were standing shoulder to shoulder with their sires; but an even more inspiring sight were the Vermont farmers, ununiformed, some of them scarcely armed except with pitchforks and other rude weapons, come out to fight a powerful and disciplined foe. But these invaders were hirelings with no great cause to defend; the men who opposed them had everything at stake, their homes, their wives and children, their lives. No one need ask, who won at Bennington? Then came good news from Fort Schuyler, followed by the still greater victory for the Americans at Stillwater. This last fight was on the 19th of September, and Oct. 7th was fought the battle of Saratoga, in which the Americans were completely victorious, and pressing from all sides on their enemy, Burgoyne with his army was compelled to surrender ten days later. Col.

Cilley's regiment took a valiant part in the battles of Stillwater and Saratoga—no regiment did more effective fighting. An Englishman, Sir Edw'd Creasy, in his book published in London, 1851, entitled the "Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World, from Marathon to Waterloo," singles out the battle of Saratoga as one of the fifteen. Surely those whose ancestors took brave part in this battle must feel a just pride in the fact. The battle over, the American soldiers hastened southward to aid their sorely pressed compatriots who were under the immediate command of Washington. They reached White Marsh, thirteen miles from Philadelphia, Nov. 21, 1777. And here our ancestor reached the end of his earthly career, dying in the army, tradition says of small pox, Dec. 1, 1777. He was a good soldier, a loyal patriot, and every inch a man.

James Harwood married about 1757, MARY CLOGSTON, a daughter of John and Miranda (Glasford) Clogston, whose marriage July 10, 1740, by the Rector of King's Chapel, Boston is recorded in the records of that church. Miranda Glasford was a daughter of John Glasford, who seems first to have settled in Boston, and afterwards lived in Leicester and Palmer, Mass. John and Miranda Clogston resided in Dunstable, N. H., where he died about 1787. The Clogstons were a well-to-do family in Dunstable, and while they owned at one time colored slaves, they became early "abolitionists," as witness the following curious and interesting document, which is still preserved in the Hillsborough County Registry of Deeds, Nashua, N. H., Vol. 3, page 630: "Know all men by these presents that I, John Clogston, of Dunstable, in the County of Hillsborough, in the Province of New Hampshire, Husbandman, for and in the consideration of Ten Pounds Lawful Money, Received of my servant woman, Fan Dickerson, for which sum and other good cause and consideration we thereunto moving, have agreed to dismiss and release said Fan and three children from being slaves or servants when they arrive at the age of thirty years; and in case she pays to me or my heirs ten pounds more that they shall be free at the age of 21 years. The three children made free as above are Obed, Flora and Kate; and I do hereby further agree that all the other children which she shall have while she is my servant be free from me and my heirs so soon as they are born, in case I am free from the charge of bringing them up. In witness, my hand and seal this 20th day of June, 1774. Signed, sealed and delivered in presence of Esther Clogston and Jonathan Lovewell, By John Clogston and wife. Acknowledged before Robert Fletcher, J. P., July 7, 1774, and recorded Apr. 4, 1775." In another paper executed later, John Clogston makes further provision for Fan Dickerson and her children, which shows him to have been a very generous and humane man. The Clogston and Glasford families were both of Scotch origin, some of their descendants claiming that they came, one or both, direct from Scotland to New England; others, that they came here from the North of Ireland. Certain it is that in the Probate and Surrogate offices of Edinburg, Glasgow and St. Andrew, Scotland, the names Clogston and Glasford appear frequently and in very old records, thus proving their Scottish origin.

It is evident that Mrs. James Harwood was a very capable woman. The care and burden of rearing her children must have fallen largely upon her, her husband being so much of the time absent from home in the army, and she was still a young woman at the time of his death.

We find her name with her husband's attached to a deed of 48 acres of land, sold to his brother, John Harwood, and his brother-in-law, Benjamin Davis, of Amherst, N. H., May 16, 1774. This land was part of a tract that had once been owned by "The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston," and included much of what is now the present city of Nashua. Following is an abstract of the deed: "James Harwood, of Dunstable, N. H., Yeoman. Consideration, £50, lawful money. To Benjamin Davis and John Harwood, of Amherst, N. H. Land in Dunstable. Being part of the Artillery farms, contains about 48 acres. Mary Harwood surrenders her right and dower, May 16, in the Fourteenth year of his Majestie's reign, A. D., 1774. In presence of Amos Fiske and Joshua Atherton. Acknowledged before J. Atherton, J. P. Recorded Sept. 29, 1774." Hillsborough County Registry of Deeds, Nashua, Vol. 3, page 260. In the records of Dunstable we find this reference to Mrs. Harwood: "March 5, 1781, Voted that Mary Harwood be allowed 7. 8. for what the town was benefitted by her late husband in the war," Nov. 9, 1785, Mrs. Mary Harwood married Isaac Foote of Wearatown, N. H. He was a widower, a little older than herself, and like her first husband had seen much service in both the French and Indian and the Revolutionary wars. She lived to the great age of 99 years. A brother of Mrs Harwood, Paul Clogston, of Dunstable, served at the beginning of the Revolution in the same company and regiment with James Harwood. He was wounded at Bunker Hill, and died from his wounds about a month later, July 15, 1775. Another brother, John Clogston, Jr., born 1741, married at Londonderry, N. H., a young widow, Mrs. Anna Glasford, and was one of the first settlers in Goffstown, N. H., where they reared six children. He also served for a time in Capt. William Walker's company in the Revolution. The Esther Clogston who witnessed the deed of freedom given by Mr. and Mrs. John Clogston to their slaves, was very probably their daughter and sister to Mrs. Harwood. The Clogstons have been a very respectable family in New England, and some of the family early settled in Ohio and other States.

Children of JOHN HARWOOD, No. 22.

28. SARAH, born Feb. 26, 1730. She married SIMEON KNIGHT, of Northfield, Mass., in 1750. He was born in Northfield, May 23, 1725. They settled, about 1752, in Westminster, Vt., were among the first settlers of that town, but were driven back to Northfield by the Indians. Mr. Knight served several enlistments in the French and Indian war, was twice taken captive by the enemy—the second time at the fall of Fort William Henry, in 1775. He was alive in Canada, Sept. 20, 1758, but died before April 15, 1759, probably in captivity. His widow married JOHN ROUNDY. She died in Rockingham, Vt., May 12, 1812. The children of Simeon and Sarah Knight were: Eunice, born July 24, 1751, married Joseph Nash, of Hadley, Mass., Jan. 30, 1772; Lois, born Feb. 4, 1753; Elisha, born Dec. 29, 1754, married Phebe Stowell, June 16, 1782, lived in Rockingham, Vt.; and Elijah, born Dec. 27, 1756, lived in Rockingham, Vt., was colonel of the militia, town clerk, and the first lawyer in Rockingham, and later a Judge of Probate. He married Mercy Fuller, in 1779.

29. LYDIA, born Jan. 22, 1732. She married ASAHEL STEBBINS, Dec. 21, 1757. They were both captured by the Indians, he was killed, but she made a heroic escape and came back to Northfield. She married again, in 1759, Samuel Merriam. She died in Northfield, in 1808.

30. MARY, born March 3, 1734.

31. JOHN, born June 5, 1733, in Hardwick, Mass. He served in the old French and Indian war "at the westward," in Capt. Selah Barnard's company, Col. Williams' regiment, entering the service from "Ware River," April 18, 1759. He married MARY PULSIPHER, daughter of John and Elizabeth Pulsipher, of Ware, and they settled in Rockingham, Vt. In 1782, he was one of Capt. William Simond's company, which was ordered to Guilford to quell a riot. In 1784, "he was one of a committee representing the congregation joined with a committee of the church of Rockingham to recommend a future policy concerning the baptism of children of parents who had owned the covenant, but were not members in full communion."

32. JAMES, born in Hardwick, Aug. 3, 1737. He was one of a company in the old French and Indian war who marched from Ware River to Kinderhook (now Hudson), N. Y., in Aug. 1757, "on alarm for relief of Fort William Henry." In 1759 he served in Capt. Selah Barnard's company, "at the westward," the same company in which his brother John was also a soldier. He married RACHEL LOVE, at Greenwich, Mass., March 15, 1775. He enlisted Jan. 13, 1776, in Capt. David Whiting's company, Col. Asa Whitcomb's regiment, and was reported dead Nov. 18, 1776. Col. Whitcomb's regiment was in the main army in 1776, at Ticonderoga. It is certain that this brave soldier of two wars saw much hard service during the eleven months in the Revolution which ended with his life.

33. ANDREW, baptized Sept. 20, 1743. He was born in Greenwich, Mass. Married RACHEL D. HIGGINS, Feb. 25, 1771. Mr. Harwood served in the Revolution, in Capt. Josiah Wilson's company, Col. Porter's regiment. He enlisted in Sept. 1777, and served under General Gates, taking part in the battle of Saratoga, one of the most important battles of the war. Mr. and Mrs. Harwood made their home in Ware, Mass., and from them sprung what is known as "the Ware branch" of our family. He died in Ware, Feb. 23, 1823, aged 80 years.

Sixth Generation.

Children of JOHN HARWOOD, No. 26. All born in Amherst, (Mont Vernon), N. H.

34. JOHN, born July 20, 1767. He spent his entire life on the old homestead in Mont Vernon. He married MARY CARLETON, daughter of Jeremiah and Lois (Hoyt) Carleton, of Lyndeboro, N. H., April 4, 1799. She was born Aug. 3, 1777, and died Apr. 18, 1834. He died Nov. 13, 1845.

35. JOSEPH, settled in Vermont. I have been unable to learn anything further of him.

36. WILLIAM, born March 3, 1770. He married ASENATH MILLS, in 1800. She was born in Mont Vernon, Aug. 19, 1769. They settled in Warner, N. H., where he died March 4, 1847, and she Aug. 20, 1868, aged 99 years.

37. EDMUND, married HANNAH JACKS. They settled in Plainfield, Vt., and after a time removed to Marshfield, Vt., where the rest of their lives were spent.

38. ANDREW, born in 1777. He went to Lyndeboro, N. H., about 1802, and settled on the farm at "Perham Corner," since known as the "Harwood Place." He married in 1804, REBECCA CRAM, daughter of Jacob and Isabella (Hutchinson) Cram. She was born March 9, 1784, and died Sept. 11, 1867. He died in 1860.

40. BETSEY, married MR. LYNCH, they had one child. Her second husband was ASA CARSON, they had six children.

41. MARY, born Sept. 17, 1786. She married MATTHEW JACKS, and they resided at Marshfield, Vt. She died in Calais, Vt, Sept. 29, 1866. They had eight children: Jane, born Feb. 4, 1813, died March 9, 1835; Matthew, born Sept. 14, 1815, married Celinda Wheeler, of Calais, Vt., one son; Levi, born May 4, 1817, married Melinda Taylor, of Marshfield, Vt., three children; Allen, born June 16, 1819, married Paulina Ainsworth, of Calais, one son; Mary, born Nov. 11, 1821, married William Ainsworth, of Calais, five children; John, born March 1, 1824, married Rachel Ainsworth of Calais, one son; Lucinda, born March 9, 1826, married Seth D. Chase, of Calais, who died in 1855, and she again married, Jan. 17, 1858, Elkanan W. Ormsbee, of East Montpelier, Vt. Their children were Alice M. and Agnes N., twins, born Oct. 31, 1858. Alice died March 20, 1863, Agnes was graduated from Goddard Seminary in 1878, married George Edwards in 1889, two children, she died June 20, 1893, and Gertrude I., born May 1, 1863, graduated from Goddard Seminary in 1882, married Burton L. Gale in 1887, four sons, reside in Buffalo, N. Y.; Fannie, born March 26, 1828, married Reuben Parker, of Calais, Vt., four children.

Children of JAMES HARWOOD, No. 27. All born in Dunstable, N. H.

42. JOHN, born about 1758. He entered the American army in the war of the Revolution, in Dec. 1775, and served in Capt. Oliver's company, Col. James Reed's regiment. A year later he re-enlisted in Capt. William Walker's company, Col. Gilman's regiment. He was in the battles of Trenton, Bennington and Stillwater, was wounded at Stillwater, and after 1823, received a pension. He married SARAH MARTIN, of Hooksett, at Goffstown, N. H., Jan 9, 1787. They resided in Goffstown until 1820, when he sold his farm and lived the rest of his life in Manchester. He died about 1832. His wife was born in 1761, died 1830.

43. JAMES, born in 1760. It is said that when a lad of 15 years he followed the regiment in which his father served, to Bunker Hill, and there watched the progress of the battle. Two years later, he enlisted in Capt. James Ford's company, Col. Moses Nichols' regiment, and with his father and his older brother were of that glorious band under General Stark who met the British and Hessians at Bennington and completely routed them. At the time of his enlistment, Mr. Harwood's residence was Litchfield, N. H. This town was originally a part of the old township of Dunstable. June 12, 1779, Mr. Harwood enlisted from Francistown, N. H., in Col. Moses Kelley's regiment, for one year and was mustered in July 20, 1779. He received a bounty of £60. Dec. 4, 1783, James Harwood, then of Bedford, N. H., married at Billerica, Mass., PATTY SANDERS, daughter of David and Abigail (Snow), Sanders. She was born in Billerica, Oct. 28, 1759. In 1784, Mr. Harwood appears as a resident and remonstrant to a petition concerning a ferry across the Merrimac River, and he is recorded then as part owner of "Brinton's farm," in Litchfield. His age is given at this time as 24 years. Under "Heads of families" in the New Hampshire census of 1790, James Harwood's residence is given as Wearstown. Soon after this he settled in Unity, N. H. His name appears in 1794, as a resident and petitioner of Unity. In the spring of 1800, while at work cutting ice out of the flume of a saw mill, the ice gave way and he was carried over the dam and killed almost instantly. His wife died in 1839. She was a member of the Congregational Church.

44. ARCHIBALD, born in 1762. There is a tradition that he served in the Revolution at the age of sixteen years as a substitute, but I have found no records of such service. He enlisted July 6, 1780, in Col. William Barron's company, Col. Moses Nichols' regiment, for the defense of West Point, and was one of those who were sold (but not delivered) to the British by the traitor Arnold. He used often to relate to his children how Washington addressed the soldiers after Arnold's treachery became known. Sept. 17, 1781, he enlisted for three months in the Fifth Regiment of Militia from Dunstable. We find this document:—

“Dunstable, Sept. 17, 1781.

We, the subscribers, do Inlist ourselves as Soldiers to serve three months from the Day of Rendezvous, and Do Promise obedience to the officers set over us, and be subject to the Rules and Regulations of the Army.

EPHRIAM BOWERS,

ARCHIBALD HARWOOD.”

This service was in Capt. John Mills' company, Col. Daniel Reynolds' regiment. Although Mr. Harwood rendered his country such faithful service, he never in his old age applied for a pension, being naturally of a very independent disposition.

At the close of the war, he went to Springfield, Vt., where he married SUSANNAH HOUSE, May 8, 1786. She was born in 1762, and was a daughter of Combes and Prudence House. Combes House was descended in a direct line from Samuel House, who came from England and settled in Scituate, Mass., in 1634. The mother of Combes House was a daughter of Anthony Combes, a French Protestant, born in France in 1656, and came to America in 1675. He settled in Massachusetts. Combes House purchased land in Springfield, Vt., Aug. 18, 1773, and continued to reside in that town until his death some twenty years later. In Feb., 1794, Archibald and Susannah Harwood, then of Weathersfield, Vt., conveyed to others their interest in the Combes House estate. In March, 1794, David House conveyed his share of his father's estate to his sister, Susannah Harwood. In May, 1805, Archibald and Susannah Harwood "quit-claimed their interest in the real estate of Combes House, late of Springfield, deceased, now belonging to Prudence House, widow of Combes," to Eleazer Sartwell. Archibald Harwood purchased ten acres of land in Weathersfield in 1792; thirty acres in 1796; twenty-five acres in 1799; and sold all three pieces to Luke Nichols, of Weathersfield, Oct. 4, 1800. Mr. Harwood was by trade a carpenter and mill wright. He removed to Eden, Vt., in 1802, and built the first mills ever erected in that town. In March, 1802, he was elected treasurer and constable in the town of Eden. In 1804, he was elected lister. In 1806, he was again elected constable. The records of deeds show several transfers of real estate by and to Mr. Harwood in Eden, from Oct. 10, 1802, until April 6, 1814. He removed from Eden to Constable, Franklin County, N. Y., and there built and owned mills. He died in Eden, in 1837. His wife in 1848. Her last years were spent with her daughter, Mrs. Phila Adams, in Eden. She was a professing Christian and a very excellent woman.

45. ROSANNAH, married JOHN BURLINGAME, son of Capt. Israel and Eunice Burlingame, at Weathersfield, Vt., where they made their home. In 1807, Mr. Burlingame purchased property in Eden, Vt., from his brother-in-law, Archibald Harwood, but there is nothing to show that he ever resided in Eden. He died in Weathersfield, Feb. 18, 1813, aged about 49 years. He left property inventoried at $2,801.94, which was distributed as follows: "To Rosanna, widow; sons, Russell, Barton and Ira; and daughters, Roxy and Sophia." Some of the descendants of John and Rosannah Burlingame still live in Vermont.

46. LYDIA, married JONATHAN ORDWAY, in New Hampshire. They had three children: Jonathan, Asa and Rachel. Mrs. Lydia Ordway married for her second husband JEDEDIAH HUTCHINS, and they had four children: Caleb, Cynthia, Jedediah and Persis. Mrs. Lydia Hutchins died in Constable, N. Y., where she had resided many years, Oct. 1842. A more extended account of her descendants will be found in the last pages of this volume.

Dea. JOHN WORTHLEY, born in Antrim, N. H., Oct. 31, 1793, son of Capt. John and Phebe (Vose) Worthley. They resided in Unity until 1841, when they removed to Antrim. She died in 1861, he in 1877. Four children: Mary E., born in Unity, June 19, 1825, married, Nov. 8, 1853, Franklin Robinson; John O., born April 29, 1828, died in California, in 1851; Martha J., born May 31, 1831, married Charles Bruce. She died in Winchendon, Mass., 1857; and Miriam, born Feb. 22, 1834, married Henry E. French, of Antrim.

Children of ARCHIBALD HARWOOD, No. 44.

96. JESSE, born Oct. 15, 1786, in Springfield, Vt. He married SALLY SCHOFIELD, at Eden, Vt., about 1806. She was born in Stamford, Conn., in 1788. They settled at Hadley, Saratoga County, N. Y.; where he died Oct. 18, 1824. His wife died at Floyd, Iowa, Feb. 7, 1868. She was a member of the Congregational Church.

97. SARAH, born in Weathersfield, Vt., Feb. 5, 1789. She married CHAS. WHITTEMORE, in 1808. We learn from the town records of Eden, Vt., that Archibald Harwood and N. P. Sawyer sold real estate in Eden to Chas. Whittemore, June 13, 1803. Mr. and Mrs. Whittemore made their home in Eden, where she died April 23, 1870. Their children were: Jerusha, Kingsbury, Richard, Lovisa, Russell, Phila, William and Ira.

98. ANNIS, born April 5, 1791, in Weathersfield. She married CLARK ELY. They resided in Eden, Vt., where she died in 1868. They had two sons, Samuel and Robert.

99. CYRUS, born in 1793, in Weathersfield. He married MARY L. LEE, daughter of Stephen and Mary (Little) Lee, Sept. 24, 1824. He studied Law and was admitted to the bar at Sandy Hill, N. Y. About 1830, he removed to Ridgeway, N. Y., where he practiced his profession and became quite eminent therein. He removed in 1836, to Michigan, where he died soon after.

100. HEMAN, born Dec. 19, 1794, in Weathersfield. He served in the American army in the war of 1812-15, and many years after, his widow received from the government, on account of such service, a piece of Western land. He married MARY STOWELL, daughter of David and Mary (Pratt) Stowell, at Eden, Vt., about 1818. Mary Stowell was a direct descendant of Samuel Stowell, who came early from England to Hingham, Mass. She was born in Winchester, N. H., Dec. 3, 1794. Heman Harwood bought land in Eden, Vt., from Oliver Pratt, March 19, 1818, and again Feb. 19, 1822. He transferred real estate to Oliver Pratt, March 19, 1818; and Feb. 12, 1824, he sold all of his property in Eden to J. D. and J. Hutchins. He then moved with his family to Bangor, Franklin County, N. Y., where he engaged in farming. In October, 1834, he went to Niagara, Ontario, to work, and in Aug. 1835, he wrote his wife that he had been ill and was coming home. That was the last his family ever heard of him, and it is supposed that he was either murdered for his money of which he had a considerable sum, or drowned in Lake Ontario while on his way home. His widow left with seven young children to care for, proved equal to the task, and succeeded in keeping them all together till they were grown to manhood and womanhood. She was a member of the Methodist Church. She died at the home of her eldest daughter, Mrs. Rouse, in Todd Connty, Minn., Feb. 13, 1874.

101. LUKE, born April 6, 1797, in Weathersfield. He married LUCINDA LEAVITT, a sister to his cousin Simeon's wife, (No. 93), in 1820. She was born Aug. 30, 1796. They resided in Franklin County, N. Y., until 1832, when they removed to Wayne County, Mich., and from there to Ionia County, Mich., where he died April 16, 1863.

Gordon Jenkins died about 1847, and his widow married WILLIS MOFFAT, in 1852. They resided in Tonica, Ill., where they had one daughter, Mary, born in 1853. Mrs. Moffat died June 9, 1893.

207. NELSON, born March 31, 1814, died January 5, 1825.

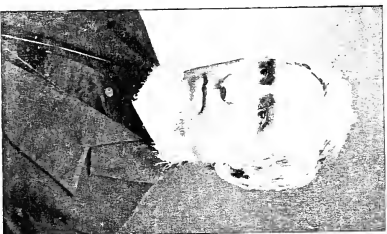

208. HEMAN, born November 28, 1815. He married MELISSA IDE, at Stockton, N. Y., September 15, 1844. She was born October 17, 1818. They resided in Lasalle County, Ill., where he died February 1, 1857. He was a Baptist. His widow married John Lathrop, and resided at Fort Dodge, Iowa.

209. SANFORD, born July 31, 1818. His father dying when he was child, he received but a common school education. He was then apprenticed to learn the trade of saddler. At the age of nineteen, in company with a brother-in-law, he left New York State for the West, and finally settled in Lowell, Ill., where he purchased a farm. August 30, 1843, he married KEZIA DRYER, daughter of Chester Dryer. She was born at Junius, N. Y., August 30, 1825. Seven years later they moved to Independence, Iowa, and a short time after to Charles City, Iowa. Again he engaged in farming, purchasing a farm of 600 acres, which he later on sold and engaged in the manufacture of boots and shoes and harness—a business he continued until health failed. He dealt much in lands and owned many thousand acres in Iowa. In 1853, he made a journey by boat from Dubuque, Iowa, to St. Paul, Minnesota, in search of lands. St. Paul was then a village of about 200 inhabitants, and Minneapolis, numbered only about 100. He saw much of frontier life. Mr. Harwood was a professing Christian. He organized the first Sunday school in Charles City. On the 30th day of August, 1893, Mr. and Mrs. Harwood celebrated their Golden Wedding, and had with them on this interesting occasion all of their children except the youngest, who resides in California. Mr. Harwood died February 2, 1896, his wife Nov. 28, 1900.

210. OLIVER P., born February 17, 1820. He married JANETTE IDE, at Stockton, N. Y., October 15, 1842. She was born at Corinth, N. Y., April 14, 1820. Mr. Harwood was by profession a lawyer, though largely engaged in other pursuits. He resided many years in Floyd and Mitchell counties, Iowa, but about a year before his death, he removed to Fargo, North Dakota, where his only son had gone. There they organized a bank and had a well established business. He died January 7, 1879, his wife April 2, 1890.

211. ELIZABETH, born August 15, 1823, died April 28, 1838.

Children of CYRUS HARWOOD, No. 99.

212. MARY E., born October 10, 1825. She married in 1847, ABRAM WAKEMAN, born at Fairfield Conn., May 31, 1824. Mr. Wakeman was one of the organizers of the Republican party, and a close friend of Abraham Lincoln, Wm. H. Seward and Thurlow Weed. He was a member of the State Legislature in 1850, and again in 1851. In 1854 and 1855, was alderman in New York City. In 1856, was elected a member of the thirty-fifth Congress. Was Colonel of the 81st Pennsylvania regiment in 1863. Was also postmaster of New York City, and surveyor of the Port of New York. Mrs. Wakeman was burned to death March 8, 1883, when the apartment which the family occupied was destroyed by fire. The children of Hon. and Mrs. Abram Wakeman were: Harwood, born in 1849, studied medicine and was graduated from Bellvue Medical College. Was assistant to Prof. Lewis A. Sayre, the celebrated surgeon. Was surgeon to the New York Central Railroad, and notwithstanding his large practice, he devoted several hours each day to charitable work. Dr. Wakeman married May 15, 1872, Sophie Murphy. He was drowned while bathing in Blue Mountain Lake, in the Adirondacks, August 15, 1878; Abram Jr., born April 23, 1850, married Louise Vail, April 10, 1873. Four children, George V., born March 21, 1877; Annette, born August 21, 1880; Elizabeth, born Aug. 12, 1882, and Harwood Lee, born October 12, 1884. Abram Wakeman, Jr., is a merchant in New York City; Mary C., married Robert Moore, two children, Archibald and Mary. Mrs. Moore, died at Moore, Wash., November 3, 1910; and Rosamond, born October 25, 1861, died March 8, 1883. Her death was most sad. The Cambridge Apartment, New York City, was destroyed by fire March 8, 1883, the Wakeman family being occupants. Mr. Wakeman was in Albany at the time. Rosamond after saving the life of the old family nurse, learned that her mother had not escaped. She at once returned into the flames to assist her and both were burned to death. Speaking of this awful tragedy, the New York Evening Telegram said: "In all the tales of romance and history in which woman is a prominent figure, there can scarcely be found a more sublime instance of heroism than that which occurred at the fire in the uptown apartment house yesterday. The young heroine, Miss Rosa Wakeman after assisting her aged nurse to escape, returned to save her invalid mother. Finding it a task beyond her powers, she chose to perish with her mother rather than abandon her in her extremity. Her name should be enrolled on the list of heroines far above many of those of whom the poets have sung and painters have left the choicest specimens of their art."

213. SALLY, born October 30, 1819, in Eden, Vt., She married JOHN ROUSE. They resided in Todd County, Minn., where he died August 29, 1874, and she July 8, 1889. They were members of the Methodist Church. Their children were: Gilbert, born March 13, 1838, is supposed to be dead; Lucina, born July 25, 1839; Almira, born July 4, 1841, died June 26, 1842; Sidney, born April 4, 1843; George born Jan. 25, 1845; Mary, born Jan. 19, 1847; Edson, born May 14, 1849; Albert, born August 2, 1851; Rhoda, born May 14, 1853, died Dec. 26, 1855; Melinda, born Feb. 12, 1855; Ella, born Feb. 12, 1857; and Warren, born July 28, 1861, died May 9, 1863.

214. MARY, born July 3, 1821, in Eden. She resided many years in Boston, Mass., where she was connected with the "Boston Medical Institute," under Dr. R. Greene. She died in Boston, April 21, 1865. She was a Methodist.

215. HIRAM, born Jan. 10, 1823, in Eden. It early fell to his lot, as the eldest son, to assist his widowed mother in caring for the younger children, and this duty he performed far more faithfully than many older persons would have done. He married January 8, 1851, MARIANNE BIGELOW, daughter of James and Lucretia (Frank) Bigelow, of West Bangor, N. Y. She was born in Plattsburgh, N. Y., September 22, 1825. James Bigelow was born in Salisbury, Vt., and belonged to the well-known New England family of that name whose genealogy has been published in a large volume. In early life, Mr. Harwood became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. For forty years he served the Church as classleader. He was a loyal churchman, ever ready to give of his time and means to the work of the Church, and constant in his attendance on her services. Mr. Harwood in the management of his farm and other business was energetic and methodical.

Of him it could truthfully be said: "He had a place for everything, and everything in its place." His wife, who was a teacher before her marriage, was a most excellent Christian woman, always ready to do all she could in every good cause. Mr. Harwood died December 23, 1890, and his wife September 11, 1906.

216. OLIVER, born July 21, 1824, in Bangor, N. Y., where also the rest of the family were born. He died July 8, 1825.

217. OLIVER, born Feb. 6, 1826. He married ELIZABETH STEENBERG, daughter of John Steenberg, September 24, 1850. They removed to Wisconsin, in 1855. He served in the Union army, enlisting February 10, 1862, in Co. I, Fifth Regiment Wisconsin Infantry. He joined the command while it was a part of King's Brigade, and was soon after transferred to that of Gen. Hancock, which in March started for Manassas, but the action there being at an end, returned to Alexandria, and made connection with the forces of McClellan for the Peninsular Campaign. He was in the attack at Lee's Mills, on the Warwick River, and next in the battle of Williamsburg, and then with his regiment was in the following named battles: Fredericksburg, Yorktown, Rappahannock Station, Mine Run, Antietam and Gettysburg. On the first day's fight in the battle of the Wilderness, he was taken prisoner May 5, 1864. He had previously veteranized and taken a furlough, but on the day mentioned was one of a detail to guard a train. He was stationed on the extreme left of the skirmish line, when they were attacked by a rebel brigade. He was several rods from his comrades, and being captured he informed the rebels that a strong force of troops were lying a little back from the stream. Believing him, they did not advance, and by this ruse he saved the wagon train, which would otherwise have fallen into their hands. He was then taken to Orange

Court House, where he was relieved of the most of his personal possessions, and then he was removed successively to Gordonsville, Lynchburg and Danville. From the latter place he was taken to Andersonville, May 23, 1864. Here he remained four months, when he was removed to the prison at Florence, S. C. Late in the following February, Mr. Harwood was one of a vast throng of ragged, starving, shivering, hatless, bare-footed, emaciated, filthy, vermin-covered, and altogether forlorn wretches, which were marched to Wilmington to be exchanged. It is safe to conjecture that such another procession will never again traverse the soil of this united country. Every rod of their progress was marked with unparalleled suffering; gaunt, grim, haggard, every line of every face marked with the ravages of a privation too miserable to be depicted with pen or brush; every form crippled and stooping under a burden of endurance too bitter even to recall with patience. Think of this picture, sons and beneficiaries of those who made this weary journey, and try to realize their emotions as they passed into redemption, under the Stars and Stripes, in March 1865. Mr. Harwood's health was shattered in a terrible manner. He had the scurvy so badly that all his teeth fell out and he never afterwards saw a well day. The hardships to which he was exposed at Florence were much less than those at Andersonville, but the prisoners suffered greatly from cold at Florence. During the winter season, Mr. H. stated that many men died from lack of ambition and energy sufficient to move about and take care of themselves. Mr. Harwood was the first man who did shoe-making in Andersonville prison. For a hammer he had an iron nut or burr on which he put a stick for a handle, and he made lasts from pieces of board. He had previously done some cobbling, but had never learned the trade. He picked up old shoes which he repaired and made new ones. For thread he had the ravelings of a piece of English tent cloth, and he obtained needles which he made flexible by heating. For pegs he took the heart of a pine stump and made them one at a time with a case knife. He had come to the conclusion that he could never get out of prison and determined to make the best of it; and he went to work in order to be employed and to earn something to keep from starving. He was for sometime the only shoemaker in the stockade, rising early in the morning and working late at night by the light of pine knots. The money he earned he used for relieving the necessities of himself and his companions. After awhile others began to make shoes and it became quite a business. His pegging awl and case knife which he brought from Wisconsin, he had managed to secrete when taken prisoner, and he carried them from Andersonville to Florence, where he also carried on the same business. He had a razor which he carried all the way through and with which he shaved his fellow prisoners. At Andersonville he gave from ten to twelve cents a teaspoonful for salt and one dollar for a quart of flour, and he managed by his work to get enough to keep himself and two companions alive. Had he obtained nothing but the regular prison allowance to eat, he would doubtless have died there. He once gave a dollar for a pound of salt that had just been taken from a pork barrel. Sometimes the men who went out to gather wood would be allowed to bring in an extra stick for their own use, and they sometimes bought beans and other food from the citizens and smuggled them into the prison. A common method was to split a log, make it hollow, place the provisions inside and fasten it together with wedges. This was after awhile discovered by the prison keepers. At Wilmington, Mr. Harwood was paroled but came down with typhoid fever and was sick several weeks, during which time he was taken to An-

221. ISAAC, born March 6, 1821, in Franklin County, N. Y. He married SARAH EDDY, Dec. 8, 1842. They resided in Ionia County, Mich., and were members of the

Disciple Church. On the 23d of September, 1880, the children and grand-children of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Harwood had a family re-union at the old home in Ionia, Michigan. There were 32 persons present, just one-half of whom were grand-children. A photographer was called, who made a picture of all, taken on the lawn in front of the house. Then the father called all the company into the parlor and presented each of the seven children with $100 each. The mother made each of the grand-children a present. Lyman, the eldest son, then arose and made these remarks: "Dear parents, on my own behalf, and by the request of these my brothers and sisters, we desire to tender to you our sincere thanks for this another manifestation of your love for us your children. We congratulate you on your success in the past, and thank you for the many lessons of advice and instruction you have given us. We know that by following your examples we may be true men and women. We hope you may both yet be spared many years, that your advice may be a blessing to us in the future, as it has been in the past. We hope to live to have many more of these family re-unions—which we all so much enjoy." The father then arose and replied as follows: "Dear children, this has been a very pleasant meeting to us, and we unite our wishes with yours for many more such re-unions. To see our children gathered together at their home is the greatest pleasure your mother and I ever expect to enjoy here on earth. It has been the aim of our lives to set such examples before our children that they might grow up respected and useful. We feel to thank you each and every one for the cheerfulness with which you have received our instructions, and wherever we may have erred, we hope you may see the errors and avoid them and set examples before your children worthy of imitation. Children, your parents have now passed the meridian of life and must soon be sepa-

295. JESSE L., born May 2, 1844. He married ANNA E. SMITH, of Lynn, Mass., July 19, 1890. He was identified with the leather industry, holding many responsible positions. He died Aug. 8, 1896, his wife Nov. 18, 1891.

296. CHARLES E., born March 6, 1851, in Charlestown, Mass. He received his education in the Lynn public Schools, his parents having removed to Lynn, in 1852. At the age of eighteen, he entered upon his business life, and the first year he did a business of ten thousand dollars. Less than a score of years after he was doing an annual business of about four hundred thousand dollars, while in 1908, he was looking after a business of over a million dollars a year. In November, 1889, his manufacturing establishment was burned to the ground, and over one hundred thousand dollars' worth of stock was consumed. It was then that Charles E. Harwood's "make-up" was apparent, for with his characteristic energy, in less than 24 hours, before the ruins of the late factory had ceased smoking, he secured another location, on which is now his present factory greatly enlarged, and continued his force practically uninterrupted. The factory originally was but a two-story building; it is now an immense structure and completely modern in all its equipments. Mr. Harwood makes a specialty of the manufacture of stiffenings for hand-sewed work, Goodyear inner soles, taps and moulded counters for men's, women's, misses' and children's shoes, and the business carried on by his corporation is acknowledged to be one of the most extensive of its kind in the country, giving employment to 250 hands. Mr. Harwood is a member of the Boston Shoe and Leather Exchange, a director of the Lynn National Bank, and Lynn Safe Deposit and Trust Company, also president and manager of the J. B. Renton Company, of Lynn, and the Structural Cement Stone Company, and vice-president of the Lynn Five Cent Savings Bank. He has been chairman of the overseers of the poor of Lynn for many years. In fraternal circles he is a 32° Mason, an Odd Fellow, and member of the Knights of Honor. He is also a member of the Oxford and Park Clubs, and was president for several years of the Lynn Republican Club. He was elected Mayor of Lynn, in 1893, by a plurality of 2698 votes, the largest ever given a mayor in Lynn, and that with five opposition candidates. He had previously served in the Common Council two years, and been a member of the Board of Aldermen one year. His administration as mayor during 1894, was eminently satisfactory to the people of the city, as was shown by his selection for a second term, and his re-election by a large and flattering majority, thus proving the confidence the citizens of Lynn repose in him. Mr. Harwood married NELLIE I. BLAISDELL. She was born Feb. 27, 1851, in South Berwick, Maine.

Children of CORODON HARWOOD, No. 189.

297. CHARLES M., born June 27, 1840, in Clay, N. Y. He served in the Union army, enlisting at Syracuse, N. Y., in Co. C, 37th New York volunteers, May 23, 1861, for

316. JAMES C., born June 29, 1844, in Lowell, Ill. In 1860, at the age of sixteen, he set out to learn the printer's trade in the office of the Charles City Intelligencer. He served as an apprentice in that office for three years, and worked as a journeyman printer for four years after. In 1867, he became half owner of the Winnebago Summit, published at Forest City, Ia. He married June 19, 1868, MARY E. BURGE, of Forest City. Mr. Harwood sold his interest in the Summit in 1871, and in April of the following year, he purchased a half interest in the Franklin County Recorder, published at Hampton, Ia., buying the other half of the paper in June 1875. In 1878 he sold the Recorder, and in the following year removed to Clarion, Ia., where he purchased the Wright County Monitor, which he continued to publish until his death, and which his son still publishes. In politics he was always a Republican, and an active worker in his party. In 1881, he was appointed postmaster of Clarion, and with the exception of about eight years, he had charge of the office during the rest of his life. He was also delegate to State and National Conventions of his party. Mr. Harwood was made a Mason in 1867, and continued in good standing in the Order throughout the rest of his life. He died July 13, 1903, his wife July 9, 1898.

317. SUSAN, born Dec. 1, 1847, in Lowell, Ill., died Oct. 10, 1848.

318. SUSAN M., born Aug. 2, 1849, in Lowell. She married JAMES M. POTTS, at Charles City, Ia., Aug. 19, 1897. They resided several years at Los Gatos, Cal., where Mr. Potts died March, 1909. Mrs. Potts returned to Charles City, May, 1910, where she now resides. She is a member of the Congregational Church.

319. ELLEN E., born Jan. 14, 1852, in Lowell, died Sept. 10, 1854.

320. JESSE D., born Sept. 19, 1853, at Independence, Ia., and died Sept. 12, 1854.

321. ELIHU BURRITT (always known as Burt), born Nov. 26, 1855, at Charles City, Ia. He received a high school education, and adopted art as a profession. In 1873, he entered the Chicago Academy of Design, and later engaged in business. In 1882, he entered the Art Students' League of New York City, of which he became a member in 1883. In 1884, he went to Paris, France, where he entered the Academie Julian, under Gustave Boulanger and Jules Lefebvre. He also studied with Amie Morot and Raphael Collin. Several months were also spent under Mercier, the noted sculptor. After three years in Paris, he returned to this country, and opened an Academy of Drawing and Painting in Minneapolis, Minn., in 1888, and the following year one in St. Paul. He also conducted a summer school at Mendota, Minn., in the old Sibley mansion, the oldest house in Minnesota. He married, Sept. 26, 1896, LUCY E. CASE, daughter of Almon G. Case, Esq., and they went soon after to Paris, France, where they have since made their residence. On returning to Paris he renewed his study under Benjamin Constant and J. P. Laurens. He is an exhibitor in the Salon of the Artists Francais. Mr. Harwood has from boyhood taken much interest in the genealogy of the family, and has rendered valuable aid in the preparation of the several editions of this work, an assistance which the author gratefully acknowledges here.

BURT HARWELL RICE, JR.

322. WILLIAM S., born Oct. 16, 1857, at Charles City. He received a high school education, and afterwards took a special three-years' course in the State University of Iowa. In 1883, he went to Chicago, and was for three years on the staff of the Inter-Ocean. He then went to St. Paul, where he was engaged about three years in daily newspaper work. After that he was for several years on the staff of the Minneapolis Evening Journal, engaged largely in special work. In 1893, he gave up newspaper work to a large extent in order to give the most of his time to actual literary work. For this he had a strong liking and became a contributor to all the leading American magazines, and to some of the best English ones. He finally became an independent magazine writer. He also wrote much editorial matter for leading religious periodicals. Spiritual perception, breadth and tolerance were his, and in these editorials he spoke many a needed, many a staunch word for the truth's sake, as well as words of uplift and inspiration to right living. He also wrote many poems. He was the author of several fine books:—"New Creations of Plant Life," an authorative account of the life and work of Luther Burbank, published in 1905; "The New Earth, a Recital of the Triumphs of Modern Agriculture," published 1906. His last work was, "A Biography of Austin Craig," which was being issued at the time of his death—he not living to see a copy of it. Two years before his death, Mr. Harwood established a beautiful home for himself and family at Los Gatos, Cal. For many years he sang in leading church choirs of the cities in which he lived. In Los Gatos, he established a Boys' Club. All the members were devoted to their leader, and not one of them but will permanently feel the uplift of association with this strong, sunny, serene, clean-minded man—for he was first of all a MAN, then a writer of exquisite prose and verse. Mr. Harwood married June 17, 1885, ESTELLE L. BALCH, of Charles City. His home life was ideal. He was a member of the Congregational Church. He died at Los Gatos, Nov. 3, 1908.

Chapter B.

The Descendants of

LYDIA HARWOOD, No. 46,

Who married for her first husband, JONATHAN ORDWAY, probably in New Hampshire; and for her second, JEDEDIAH HUTCHINS. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchins were early settlers in Constable, N. Y., where she died in 1842.

Children by JONATHAN ORDWAY. All born, probably, in New Hampshire.

1. ASA, married MARY WENTWORTH, and resided in Vermont. They had several children.

2. JONATHAN, born in 1784. He married SARAH GREEN, at Swanton, Vt., about 1809, and moved to Fort Covington, N. Y., soon after. He became a large land owner in Ft. Covington and nearby towns. He erected saw mills and lumbered extensively. He was also a practicing physician. He died Dec. 13, 1856, his wife July 13, 1849.

3. NEHEMIAH, married in Vermont. He came to Ft. Covington about 1810, and removed to Ohio about 1815. Had several children. (In my record of Lydia's children on page 48 of this work, I failed to include Nehemiah. He went west at such an early date, that most of my informants had never heard of him.)

4. RACHEL, married NATHAN WHEELOCK, resided in Vermont.

Children by JEDEDIAH HUTCHINS. All born probably in Eden, Vt.

5. CALEB, married MINDWELL WENTWORTH. They resided in Constable, and later in Bellmont, N. Y. According to the "History of Clinton and Franklin Counties," Caleb served from Constable in the war of 1812-15, which if correct, shows that the Hutchins family were in Constable as early, or earlier, than 1814. He died about 1873, his wife about 1877.

6. CYNTHIA, born Oct. 2, 1798. She married, March 27, 1817, in Constable, JOSEPH HASTINGS, son of Isaac and Sarah (Goddard) Hastings. Mr. Hastings came to Constable from Warwick, Mass., in 1814. Mrs. Hastings died May 6, 1856.

7. PERSIS, born about 1801. She married NATHAN HOBBS. They resided at Ogdensburg, N. Y. After Mr. Hobbs' death his widow came back to Constable, and afterward married MASON WILCOX.

8. JEDEDIAH, born in 1803. He married ALVIRA HUTCHINS, and they resided in Constable, where he died July 9, 1843. His wife died about the same time.

GRANDCHILDREN OF LYDIA.

Children of JONATHAN ORDWAY, No. 2. All born in Ft. Covington, N. Y.

9. SARAH, born March 25, 1810. She married CHAND-

ROSWELL B. ORDWAY

11. WILLIAM, born March 7, 1816. He married SARAH A. DIMOND, of Fort Covington, Sept. 24, 1845. He went to California by way of Cape Horn, in 1849, returned in 1852, and followed farming and lumbering. Mrs. Ordway died in 1886, and he removed to Chicago, in 1898.

12. MARY, born June 17, 1818, died in infancy.

13. FIDELIA, born Oct. 4, 1819. Married JAMES LONGLEY, of Ft. Covington, about 1844. She died Jan. 26, 1892.

14. ROSWELL B., born May 15, 1822. He married ELIZABETH LAFLEUR, of Westville, N. Y., May 10, 1857. He died Aug. 25, 1893, and she in 1900.

15. ALONZO, born Oct. 18, 1823. He married ORILLA ELLSWORTH about 1845. He died Dec. 1, 1884, and his wife Jan. 18, 1891.

16. JONATHAN, born about 1826. He married EMILY FRYE, of Bombay, about 1858. He went to California about 1868, returned a few years after. He died in Manchester, N. H., about 1889.

17. LOVISA, born about 1828. She married DR. ISAAC J. MOXLEY, of Bangor, N. Y., in 1855. Mrs. Moxley died April 14, 1868.

18. NEHEMIAH F., born about 1832. He went to California in 1849, from there to Australia. Returned to California, where he married ELIZABETH KENNEDY. He was a delegate to the Methodist Episcopal General Conference, in 1892. They have children.
